With DataWriter Web Access you can view your existing DataWriter reports using your web browser. By distributing your reports through a web browser, access to your data is greatly simplified for your users, especially if you are currently using the UNIX shell or ftp. Support for multiple libraries makes it easier for users to navigate around and find the report they are looking for. Spreadsheet data can be viewed online, or loaded into excel or OpenOffice. These features make the web interface easy to learn, and allows your users to be more efficient with their time.
